OUTLOOK IN MEXICO

MEXICAN LADY SAYS NATIVES STRONGLY DISTRUST THE UNITED STATES

Mexico is one of the richest countries for agricultural purposes in the world. Her soil is wonderfully productive. In the province of Sinaloa, one of the most beautiful of all the Mexican provinces, three crops of corn are easily grown in a single year. Yet this rich and fertile land is lying practically barren and unproductive. The devastation of war is everywhere.

"I have just come from the province of Sinaloa," said Mrs. Roy James, sister-in-law of Mrs. McReynolds, 429 Central avenue, to a representative of the Glendale Evening News, "where I have lived during a considerable part of my life. My husband is stationed at Mazatlan, 50 miles inland from Mazatlan, where he is superintendent of electric light and power at the famous Minas del Tajo, one of the oldest mines in the country and one of the most productive.

"There has been no real interference with the mines at Rosario, although there have been various 'taxes' placed upon our output by different generals. Sometimes Villa's men would come in; again Carranza's followers would pay us a visit, and perhaps Villa's men would return and the Carranzistas would disappear.

"Entering a city like Rosario, the soldiery would make a search through every house in the town and appropriate everything they wanted. They would levy food on the city and compel the citizens to feed them with the best, even though the citizens should starve. Naturally the people tired of the warfare. They have no strong liking for Villa; neither do they admire Carranza, and to a great many of them Zapata is distasteful. They are exceedingly anxious that the strife should cease; but they would prefer that it should go on rather than that the United States should intervene.

"In that all classes of the country are united and that would unite them also—their hatred of the United States. The average Mexican has been taught that the United States has already taken away a great part of Mexican territory and that it is only waiting a chance to seize the whole country. It is therefore going to be difficult for the United States to convince the Mexicans of its good faith.

"Mexicans believe that President Wilson has already determined in his own mind to take the country and they are determined to resist any such movement. It would be a difficult task to pacify Mexico by force of arms. The country lends itself to defense, and the people are bold, brave and skillful in warfare, which, in the face of a numerous enemy, would be turned into a guerilla war.

"My husband has never been interfered with during the time he has been with the Minas del Tajo company. We have fared rather better than most, partly because my husband is an American and partly because we have planted vegetables of which we have a good supply and partly because we have quite a number of cattle on the hills, which have never been interfered with.

"For months the people of Sinaloa province have had no vegetables and no fruit. They refused to plant any because what they grew would immediately be confiscated by the conflicting armies. The food sent from the United States to feed the people was immediately appropriated by the soldiers of Villa, when it came within their reach; when it came within reach of Carranza, he also took it to feed his men and the poor, starving people were none the better.

"It is so difficult to do anything with the people of Mexico; they are so illiterate, poor people. More than 80 per cent of them can neither read nor write. They are completely at the mercy of those who wish to manipulate them for their own purposes. No one knows from day to day what may happen. There is no policy in any of the parties. The whole country is just drifting, drifting."

Mrs. McReynolds' brother, Mr. Roy James, has been in Rosario for nearly three years. He is returning to Glendale within a few weeks and afterward he and Mrs. James will return to Rosario. Mrs. James is pleased to be in the peace and security of Glendale, but her heart is with her own country, of which her family, the ancient stock of the Portillos, has long been a distinguished and wealthy element.

Dr. Marion Thresher of San Francisco suggests that cooks be licensed. Not a bad idea. Cooks are more important than chiropodists.

STUDY OF NATURE

MISS WHITE TO ORGANIZE THIS WORK IN ALL GLENDALE GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

Nature study is a compulsory subject in the public schools of California; yet there are few places where any pretense of adequately teaching this subject is made. Glendale is one of the places where systematic effort has been put forth to comply with the regulations. The subject being compulsory in these grammar schools, some teaching was given last year of a more or less systematic order. It will be remembered that in the Intermediate school there was quite an exhibit of the work done in this direction. That work showed that the children took an intelligent interest in the subject.

Principal R. D. White of the Intermediate school said to a representative of the Glendale Evening News: "During the coming school year there will be more thorough teaching of nature study than there was last year. The trouble has always been lack of funds. It will be possible, however, to finance this work to a certain extent this year and Miss White, teacher of agriculture, will supervise the work in all the grammar schools. She will plan courses on nature study in all the grades and will visit the schools and see that the work is properly carried out. This supervision will do much to systematize the study and should prove of great advantage to the children."

"There is another reason why this subject has been neglected to a certain extent in the grammar schools of the state. There are very few universities and colleges in the United States which give the proper training to the teacher who desires to specialize in nature study work. Cornell university made an enviable reputation for itself by emphasizing nature study and many of the best teachers of this subject in the country are graduates of that institution."

"Interest is growing, however, and it will not be long before there will be a demand for teachers equipped for this sort of work. A few of the larger cities in this state have nature study supervisors, such as Miss White will be in the Glendale schools, and consequently the work is organized. In many other places no attempt whatever has been made to meet even the bare requirements of the law. When teachers are asked to take up nature study work they either complain that they have not had the proper training or that material is not available."

As far as can be ascertained the only attempt to furnish teachers of this state with proper material has been the publication of a "Bird and Arbor Day" bulletin by the superintendent of public instruction and by the publication of a bulletin entitled "Bird Study in the Public Schools" and a series of leaflets for teachers by the California fish and game commission.

What is really needed in teaching this study is the regular field trip. Children should be taught to read a roadside as they read a book. They can learn more out in the fields than in the classroom. In Europe since early days the field study has been a profitable custom. Some of this work has been done in Sacramento. Classes of fifth graders have been taken to the city parks and to the outskirts of the city and have been taught the names and habits of the different forms of life encountered.

The bureau of education, research and publicity of the California fish and game commission has planned to furnish teachers throughout the state with the proper sort of material for teaching game conservation along in nature study in public schools.

BOSTON GUEST

Miss Marian Story of Boston arrived in Glendale this morning to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Preston, 725 Adams street. Miss Story is touring the West and visiting the expositions as the guest of the Boston Journal, having been one of the winners in a subscription contest conducted by that paper. She arrived in Los Angeles via the Prince Rupert this morning in company with ninety others who had won in similar contests on other papers. The party enjoyed five days at the San Francisco exposition and made various stop-overs at interesting points enroute.

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

LONDON, Aug. 13.—One of the most daring raids made up to date by the German Zeppelin squadron was continued throughout four days on the east coast of England. The Zeppelins apparently have no difficulty in reaching a base over night and returning the next day. The British were on the outlook for the Germans, but the Zeppelins Thursday night managed to kill six citizens and would twenty-three before they were driven off.

This makes a total of twenty killed and thirty-two wounded by Zeppelins during the past four days. The British air squad was promptly on the scene and succeeded in damaging one of the Zeppelins, but they all made their escape.

Four men and two women were killed Thursday night; three men, eleven women and nine children were wounded. Fourteen houses were set on fire by means of incendiary bombs.

PEACE APPEAL READY

Secretary Lansing and Pan-American Delegates Hope for Influence

Special Service to Glendale Evening News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—Hope prevails in government circles here that the peace appeal of Secretary Lansing and the Pan-American delegates, which is ready to be forwarded today to Mexico's warring factions, may have the effect of stopping the internecine warfare in that country. It is now believed that Carranza's belligerent attitude was due to his misunderstanding of the purpose of the Pan-American conference. Carranza issued a statement today denying that his troops participated in the recent raids on the American border. It is said here that the activity of the Carranza agents in the capitol has injured the administration.

OFF TO BERKELEY

DOROTHY HOBBS BIDS FAREWELL TO FRIENDS AT AN UNIQUE PARTY

While regret at the departure of Miss Dorothy Hobbs, who left for Berkeley on Thursday morning, was visible in the countenance and speech of the guests at an unique dinner party given in honor of that popular young lady in Tropic last Wednesday afternoon, the young friends of the accomplished young student endeavored to speed her on her way with friendly encouragement. The dinner party, at which were assembled the intimate girl companions of Dorothy, was the conception of Miss Mary Jane Evans, another gifted young lady, who was assisted in her functions as hostess by her mother, Mrs. W. A. Hough.

In the dining-room, charmingly decorated in yellow and white, which color scheme was carried out in the table decorations, the youthful friends of Dorothy enjoyed a dainty repast. In the center of the table a low cut-glass bowl, filled with yellow daisies, shone resplendent. All was youthful and gay as befitted a celebration of the entrance into larger collegiate life of one who has entwined herself into the affections of her companions.

There was much merry laughter and many pleasant conjectures of how the parting guest would enjoy the university, the goal on which the eyes of others in the little company are steadily fixed. Music and mirth sped the merry hours away and amid a suspicion of sunshiny tears Dorothy Hobbs bade farewell to the friends of her high school days. Those who were asked to bid farewell to Miss Hobbs and to partake of Miss Evans' hospitality were the Misses Carrie Stone, Kathleen Dodge, Pauline Hamilton, Esther Schremp, Lillian Lepleman, Evangeline Hunchberger, Katherine Hobbs, Amy Miller and Esther Sinclair. The hostess, Miss Mary Jane Evans; her mother, Mrs. Hough, and Miss Dorothy Hobbs completed the tale of this enjoyable party.

TROPICO

As a happy finale to the many delightful social farewells that have been tendered Miss Dorothy Hobbs was that of the Round Table girls held at the home of Miss Eunice Jones and sister, Miss Esther Jones, on East Park avenue Tuesday evening. The regular interesting program was given interspersed with music. The pretty home of these hostesses was very effectively decorated in white and green. The evening's festivities closed with an elaborate collation, which added much to the charming affair. Those whom Miss Jones and sister invited to thus honor Miss Hobbs were Miss Ethel Stokes of Larned, Kansas; Miss Edna Brown, Miss Katherine Hobbs, Miss Olive Moffett, Miss Blanche Shea, Miss George Duffet, Miss Gladys Hamilton and Mrs. Dan Bruce.

Miss Ethel Stokes of Larned, Kansas, is the house guest of Miss Eunice and Miss Esther Jones of East Park avenue.

After a pleasant visit as guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Jodin of Gardena avenue, Mrs. D. L. Dayhoff and children of Tulare left for Pasadena, where they will be the guests of Mrs. Dayhoff's parents.

Miss Fredonia Borthick has returned from a delightful visit in San Francisco and Porterville. In the latter city Miss Borthick was the guest of her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Borthick.

Miss Dorothy Hobbs of North Central avenue left for Berkeley Thursday morning, sailing on the President for San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs and Miss Katherine Hobbs accompanied Miss Dorothy as far as San Pedro on her trip to the North. Miss Hobbs enters Berkeley university, where she will matriculate during the coming year. Many are the friends whose best wishes accompany this clever young student.

SWIMMING FOR BOYS

Arrangements have been made by the playground committee to have Hastings Bidwell, superintendent of the Central avenue playground, stationed at Kelley's reservoir at the corner of Oak and Glendale, where he will act as supervisor of swimming on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week from 1 to 1 p. m. All boys desirous of swimming can go to the reservoir on those days and have the advantage of Mr. Bidwell's instruction and supervision. The committee also desires to record its thanks to Mr. Kelley for having so graciously placed the reservoir at their disposal.

GAMES IN THE CITY

BASEBALL AND TENNIS EVENTS OF INTEREST—HANDBALL BECOMING POPULAR

It was unfortunate that the game scheduled to be played between the Thirtieth street playground team of Los Angeles and the Union high school playground team had to be called off as the players of the high school team were not assured their expenses.

However, the Echo park team will be out to play us at the Union high school Saturday afternoon and as our boys expect to win this, their fourth game, we are anxious that all of Glendale turn out to root for our team.

A small hat collection will be taken to pay for a baseball, but this need not alarm anyone, as no one who is short of pin money will be expected to pay.

Girls Wanted

Girls are wanted for the tennis tournament. The time schedule will be printed in Saturday's paper. Several good players among the tennis stars are still in need of partners.

Handball

The friendly rivalry which exists between the Union high school playground and Central avenue playground is not alone confined to baseball. Thursday afternoon two teams of handball players met Bidwell's teams on their court and succeeded in holding them to a draw or tie. Bill Morse and Tom Phillips, the senior players for the high school, held Bidwell and his partner to the following scores:

Morse vs. Bidwell: Bidwell won 17-21, 21-9, 21-12.

Phillips vs. opponent: Phillips won 21-4, 21-20, 2-15.

Myron Powers played against Jack Jenkins—21-11, 21-15—winning both games. Pete Powers played against Earl Williamson. He won the first set, 21-16; lost the second, 11-18, and lost the third, 20-21.

The juniors for U. H. S. played equally as hard a game. Myron Powers won over his opponent, while his brother, Pete, failed to get the best of his man.

Ireland's national game, handball, is becoming very popular on the playgrounds and many good games are anticipated.

JAPAN AND NATIONAL RELIGION

Nothing more clearly shows the line of demarcation between Japan and the United States than the attitude that country holds toward a state religion. Just at present Japan has no adopted and endowed state religion though the state has a religion of a kind. Of recent years even Buddhism has fallen into disrepute; while Christianity has failed to make any marked impression on the natives. Along with the disbelief in the old faiths—Buddhism, Shintoism and Confucianism—there has grown up an ominous lack of morality among the people.

Dr. Ikki, minister of education, says that he is still of the opinion that a clear line should be drawn between education and religion, and the cultivation of the national spirit and the improvement of knowledge should be conducted along the lines laid down in the educational rescript issued by the emperor without any introduction of religious elements.

Teachers in Japan are therefore requested to abide by this recognized principle of separating education from religion. Here comes in the wide difference between the east and the west. While the United States is absolutely devoted to the idea of having no religion in its schools and no religion as a matter of state, "Japan believes," says Dr. Ikki, "that should some faith unifying or transcending all denominations and religion be established it can surely be used as the foundation of national education."

Here, too, speaks the wise oriental, "but different cults and sects are being zealously defended by their respective adherents everywhere and it goes without saying that no one religion, nor sect, can claim to be the main pillar of education. On the other hand," he says, "if a religion is not harmful to the national spirit and public order, the state should extend adequate protection to it. Even education should not suppress nor exclude it; while no particular faith will be permitted to be taught in school, education must not exclude nor slight religion."

It is easy to see under this growing tendency in Japan to the enforcement of a simple national religion—possibly a belief in God and in a future life, as has been recommended by some Japanese thinkers as a creed. Whatever may be the outcome of this controversy, however, Japan will settle it according to her own standards which are as widely different from those of the United States as the genius of the one nation is greater than the other. It may be that in this eager seeking after a religious symbol that may unite their nation the Japanese are giving token of the dawning of the age of religious unity everywhere.

FAIR PLAY TO ALL PATRONS

"What means this holler in the rural districts about restrictions of the rural free delivery?"

The Postmaster General had been at least half interested in the papers on his desk, but now he swung sharply around in his chair.

"There has been no restriction. Who says there has been? A revision is under way which gives service to many hundred thousands who are entitled to it but heretofore have been denied it. This is being done without increasing the cost of the postal service and without taking away service from any one who now has it. It is accomplished by money saved by eliminating waste effort, extravagance, special favors and privileges.

"Just for example: Parts of hundreds of rural routes have been traveled daily by two or more rural carriers. There are cases where as many as six or seven carriers each getting from $1000 to $1200 per year have been going over the same eight or ten miles of road. Politics! This vicious system of duplication was built up through a series of years by political influence. By cutting out these duplications and retracing we get a balance available for service in territory that has long deserved it.

"The readjustment of the rural service and inauguration of motor vehicle service left $821,754 for establishing new routes. With part of this money 735 new routes have been put in operation serving 85,748 additional families or 428,740 additional persons.

DANGER IN VACANT LOTS

No one can have failed to have noticed the frequency with which grass fires in vacant lots are reported in Glendale. This is especially the case in hot weather. That no particular damage has been done as yet to adjacent house property is to the credit of the fire department. But it is conceivable that some time one of these grass fires will get beyond control; or two such fires might happen at the same time and it might be impossible to check one of them. In such a case as that serious damage might be done.

There have been several cases in which had it not been for the promptitude of the fire department, destruction of property would have followed one of these outbreaks. It does not seem unreasonable to compel owners of vacant property to attend to the condition of the grass and weeds on their lots. Attention in time would easily prevent what might some day cause destruction of valuable property. Owners should be compelled to cut down and burn or remove dry grass and weeds on their vacant lots.

No two men look just alike; neither have any two men exactly the same ways and manners.

The thorough cultivation of the soil is what results in producing good crops.

That intelligent individuals should band themselves together on land and on sea for the purpose of destroying their fellowmen without cause is indeed great folly.

Wednesday, August 11, has been given out as the hottest day of the season thus far. 102 degrees in the shade in Glendale and 116 degrees in the shade at Riverside are two important temperature records.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA COTTON

The adaptability of the soil and climate of California to the growing of cotton has been known for some years. Of late planting has been begun on a large scale and the acreage is increasing year by year.

In 1909 over 500 acres were planted in Imperial county, with seeds from Georgia and Texas. The result was most gratifying, an average of over one bale (500 pounds) to the acre being produced, some 600 bales in all, most of which found a ready market at the California cotton mills at Oakland. In 1910 some 12,000 acres were cultivated, producing 8000 bales of excellent staple.

During the season of 1913, 26,000 acres were planted, with a production of 19,700 bales. The bureau of the census reports that 49,835 bales were ginned in California in 1914, including cotton grown on the Mexican side of the Imperial valley.

It is an interesting fact that California broke several records during 1914. The earliest bale of cotton ever ginned in the United States was grown near Calexico and ginned on June 17th, three days earlier than the previous record held by Brownsville, Texas. The cotton was grown as the third crop on the same stalks. Seed taken from the record bale and planted on the same acre produced a second bale, ginned on October 15th of the same year.

The United States department of agriculture reported in February that both long and short staple cotton in California yielded 500 pounds to the acre. Missouri had the next best record, with 325 pounds of long staple and 295 of short staple per acre. The same authority reported California cotton as 100 per cent perfect in quality. This is largely due to the fact that there is very little rain to stain the fibre, nor is there any frost until the season is practically over. Therefore all kinds of California cotton bring a premium over the prevailing market price on account of the beautiful whiteness of the product.

According to Mr. W. E. Packard, agronomist in charge of the Imperial valley experiment farm, commercial cotton growing is at present confined to Imperial county and a small acreage in the Palo Verde valley of Riverside county. El Centro and Calexico are the chief cotton centers. However, it has been successfully grown in other counties and is adapted to many sections of the state, where it is now unknown, provided a suitable supply of cheap and experienced labor can be developed.

Three principal varieties are now being raised. The short staple yields from three-fourths of a bale to two bales per acre, with a ginning percentage of about 33 per cent and a selling price ranging from 8 to 14 cents per pound. The Durango (medium staple) yields from one-half to two bales an acre, has a ginning percentage of from 29 per cent to 31 per cent, and commands a price from two to four cents higher than the short staple. The Egyptian (long staple) has been successfully grown but labor and market conditions have discouraged its further extension.

One of the remarkable features about cotton growing in California is the fact that re-seeding is not necessary. If the rows are ridged up well at the last cultivation, to prevent the buds from freezing, a good stand of volunteer cotton is secured for the next crop.

The extent of the industry in the Imperial valley has called for the installation of sixteen modern ginning machines, three cotton seed oil mills and two compressors.

CALIFORNIA PRODUCES COAL AS WELL AS OIL

Although California oil has to a large extent displaced the use of coal as a fuel in the Pacific coast states, two California mines reported an output of coal in 1914. In order not to reveal the individual output of these mines, their production is grouped with that of the one producing mine in each of the states of Idaho and Nevada, and the total combined production of the three states in 1914 is given at 13,974 tons, valued at $39,821, according to the United States geological survey.

Coal mining and the coal trade generally in California lay little claim to importance among the industries of the state, particularly since the beginning of the present century, when the production of petroleum began to exert so powerful an influence on the fuel consumption of the Pacific coast. From 1910 to 1912, inclusive, the coal production of the state was only a little more than 10,000 tons in each year; in 1913 work was resumed on the Stone canyon properties in Monterey county and the production increased to 24,839 short tons, valued at $4,073. The output of 1914, however, showed an appreciable decrease. The only other production in 1914 was from the lone mines in Amador county.

THE REAL MAN

Money or high position do not determine the character of the man; high-priced clothes and high society companions are not a true index to the character of a man. The inner thoughts the every day life enter into the qualifications of the real man.

BEGGING MUTES IMPOSTORS

One must admire the spirit of Mr. James F. Meagher, mute editor of a deaf mutes' journal at Vancouver, who, speaking with his fingers before the convention of the National Association of the Deaf at San Francisco, recommended that state laws be enacted to punish street beggars who impersonate deaf mutes to trade upon public sympathy. He declared that these alms-seekers almost invariably are impostors. "Those of us who are deaf and dumb never beg," said he. "Real deaf mutes are not idlers; they work." Laws such as Mr. Meagher recommends are in force in seven states.

The energy and pluck which so many afflicted in this manner show elicit the sincere admiration of all who know of their extraordinary achievements under serious handicap. It has come to pass that no person, with any of his or her faculties nothing and bemoan affliction. B1 ties impaired, need sit down, do nothing and bemoan affliction. Many an able-bodied person in full possession of faculties is shamed by the remarkable accomplishments of the deaf and dumb, the blind or the maimed.—Pasadena News.

HE WAS

The minister came to Jethro's house one afternoon to a christening party. He was to christen Jethro's little son—Jeth, Jr.

"Jethro," said the minister solemnly, taking his host aside before the ceremony, "Jethro, are you prepared for this solemn event?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, doctor," Jethro beamed. "I've got two hams, three gallons of ice cream, pickles, cake and—"

"No, no, Jethro," said the minister with a smile. "No, no, my friend, I mean spiritually prepared." "Well, I guess so! Two demijohns of whiskey and three cases of beer!" Jethro cried in triumph.—Philadelphia Star.

HOOK WORM HAS NO EFFECT

Dairyman MacMullin is not one of those persons who are affected by the hook worm. Instead of growing indolent in hot weather, he works the faster. He writes from Lancaster where he has been rounding up and branding cattle that it is 110 in the shade there and that he branded 150 head of cattle and vaccinated 125 head in two days. He says there is lots of sunshine, wind and dust out on the desert and thinks that would be a good place to consign some of Glendale's knockers.

An Italian, visiting Los Angeles, said the three things that impressed him most in America were liberty, opportunity and friendship. Three good words to conjure with.

BISON HERD GROWS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The government's herd of buffalo on the Wichita national forest in Oklahoma, which is also a federal game preserve, has been increased by the arrival of ten calves, according to a report received by the forest service from the supervisor in charge. The herd, which now comprises sixty-two specimens of the almost extinct bison, is in good condition, says the supervisor, and promises to continue increasing at a rapid rate.

Eight of the calves are females, bringing the number of heifers and cows up to thirty. The bulls number thirty-two and have been placed by themselves in a pasture which has just been fenced in for them.

Three years ago the buffalo herd on the Wichita forest was little more than half as large as it is now. It is said that the other game animals in the preserve, including the elk and antelope, also are increasing, because of the protection afforded not only against hunters, but against wolves, wild cats and other predatory animals, which committed serious depredations from the establishment of the preserve in 1905 until measures were taken to stop them. In protecting the game from predatory animals, the wardens and forest officers are also promoting the interests of local stockmen, who graze several thousand herd of cattle on certain allotted areas within the preserve.

WOMEN MAY BUILD ROAD

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 11.—If men haven't got "gumption" enough to mend the seven-mile stretch of highway between Higley and Chandler, suburbs of Phoenix, 400 club women intend to don overalls and sunbonnets and do the work themselves.

This was made plain when the members of the Women's Civic club of Chandler and the Linger Longer club of Higley announced that they were weary of waiting for the men to tackle the task of repairing the roadway. They secured a flock of mules, many road implements, and began practicing their use. They declared they were ready and willing to essay the difficult task of transforming a rough trail into a gleaming boulevard and when they are convinced that the men are mere triflers they promise to have the signal given to go to work and put the males to the blush of shame.

THE KITTEN'S TAIL

Who originated the story I do not know. It comes to me from Dr. Percy S. Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, as reported in the Outlook. But it is a good one.

A tender-hearted lady rushed to stroke and pat a stray kitten which had sought refuge in the house from the merciless street. But the more she petted, the more the kitty writhed, meowed and spat. The lady could not understand the ungratefulness of the animal, until a bystander pointed out to her that while she was caressing the kitten's head, she was all the while standing on its tail.

Some day we are going to find out that what the world of common men wants is not kindness, charity, philanthropy and the like; they first want justice, a square deal and the abolition of unearned privilege.

They do not want so much to be patted on the head; they want you to take your foot off their tail.—Frank Crane, M. D.

COTTON EXPORTS GOOD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Contrary to general belief, our cotton exports for the first five months of 1915 (war time) exceeded exports for the corresponding period in 1914 (peace time).

Since war began much discussion of the cotton crop has been and is taking place without full knowledge of the facts, which are:

The 1914 crop was 15,873,000 bales, with 1,328,600 bales left from 1913 and 303,400 bales imported, making a total visible supply of 17,509,000 bales on hand. June 1, 1915, 12,562,000 bales had been exported or used here, leaving 4,948,000 bales.

The domestic consumption of cotton has been about as much as was anticipated, the export of cotton much larger than was anticipated, and the price received higher than most people would have been willing to predict last fall.

HIS REASON

The passenger on the little jerk-water railroad was impatient at the crawling speed. He summoned the porter.

"Sam," he demanded, "can't you make better time than this?"

Sam smiled broadly.
"Yes, sah," he said, "Ah sure can. But Ah just hafter stay wid dis yer train twell we reach Jackson, sah."

—Exchange.

SCHOOL DAYS AT HAND

Although there is still almost a month to elapse before the school vacation comes to an end, there has been quite a number of inquiries at the office of the Glendale Evening News as to when both the high school and the grammar schools open. It is possible now to announce on the authority of Principal Moyse that the high school will be reopened Tuesday, September 7. Monday, September 6, is Labor Day and a legal holiday; otherwise the school would have opened on that date.

Principal Moyse is desirous that particular attention be paid to registration. All students not already registered are expected to get themselves on the registration roll the week before the opening of school.

Principal Richardson D. White of the Intermediate school desires to inform parents and children that the grammar schools will be reopened Monday, September 13. No advance registration is required in connection with these schools. Further announcements will be made later.

TO REPAIR BURNED BUILDING

At the meeting of the city trustees Monday evening Mr. Strong appeared before the board on behalf of Mr. Collier, owner of the building on the northwest corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue, recently damaged by fire, the question having been raised as to his rights to make repairs. Mr. Strong alleged that the building has not been damaged beyond 20 per cent of its value, and asked permission to make repairs so as to restore it to its condition before the fire.

Manager Watson stated that the actual damage by fire was not great, but that the building inspector objects to any rebuilding being done with the foundation in its present condition. The city manager believed that if the foundation was made satisfactory, repairs might be safely made.

On motion of Trustee Tower, permit was granted Mr. Collier to restore the building under conditions satisfactory to the building inspector.

WIGHTMANS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wightman returned Tuesday evening from a several weeks' sojourn in the North. They spent six weeks with their daughter near Sunnyside, Wash., where they had a delightful visit, experiencing all kinds of weather, including a period of hot weather, a thunder storm and a wind storm. The Yakima valley in the vicinity of Sunnyside is a rich agricultural country, vegetables and alfalfa being the principal crops, while much fruit is grown further up the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Wightman visited in Portland, Seattle and other northern cities, spending two weeks in San Francisco, where they visited the fair. Their many friends and neighbors are glad to have them back at home once more.

LOOKED THE PART

According to a lively contemporary, the wife of the governor of a certain state was telling a servant about her husband.

"My husband, Bridget," she said proudly, "is at the head of the state militia."

"O! t'ought as much, ma'am," said Bridget cheerfully. "Ain't he got the foine malicious look!"—Youth's Companion.

No wonder India has submitted to English tyranny under this dominion. The American people would never rise from control of trusts and monopolies did they believe in Karma; a theory of a primitive and early people who carried with it also the thought of transmigration of souls, which seems too repugnant to a twentieth century theosophist to teach. The sense of self responsibility, the present most needed improvement, is hindered by all these theories, which are used as excuses for lack of self-control.—Henry Harrison Brown.

WASN'T FOREMAN AT ROME

The new foreman was a hustler. Nothing escaped his eagle eye, and whenever he saw a fellow workman suffering from a tired feeling he quickly woke him up.

So when he discovered a brick-layer snatching a quiet pipe behind a wheelbarrow, his wrath rose mightily.

"What do you think you're paid for? Get on with your job if you don't want to get fired pretty sharp."

"All right, boss," the workman rejoined. "Keep your 'air on. Rome wasn't built in a day, you know."

"That may be," rejoined the hustler, "but I wasn't foreman of that job."—Kansas City Times.
